His Boarders.

Mr. Doyle is one of the most polite and kindly of men. He has a lovely home in San Mateo, and, like a great many people who have lovely homes, he does not always know what goes on. One evening Mr. Doyle arrived from the city and his coachman was at the station with his wagon. They drove along home, and, as they came to the gate leading into his preserves, a burly tramp stood leaning against the rail. He did not move to open the gate, so the driver got down and opened it. As soon as he did the tramp calmly walked in and proceeded up the avenue.

"Who is that?" asked Mr. Doyle.

"He seems to be a cool kind of a customer."

"That, sir, is one of your boarders."

"My boarders! What do you mean?"

"Don't you know that you have ten or a dozen regular boarders at the house?"

"I didn't know it."

"Oh, yes. They come regularly to breakfast. They are very particular and hard to please."

"Ten or a dozen men breakfast at my house every morning! You just tell the cook that if he gives any one of them another breakfast I'll discharge him. I don't want to turn away any poor devil of a starving man, but if anybody wants a meal you send him out to saw wood for an hour. Then you can give him as much as he can eat."

"There'll be trouble, sir."

Next morning Mr. Doyle was being driven down to the train. As they passed down the road two rather depressed-looking individuals were seen walking ahead.

"There go two of your boarders, sir."

"Those dirty-looking fellows? Did you follow my instructions this morning?"

"We did, sir, and there was an awful row. They were very angry, and we thought there was going to be a fight."

When they reached the two tramps, Mr. Doyle stopped his wagon and spoke.

"I am very sorry, gentlemen, I was compelled to issue rather stringent regulations about breakfast at my place. Of course, I did not mean that they should especially apply to you, gentlemen; but there are so many who impose upon me in that way, and ——"

"No need for excuse Mr. Doyle; don't mention it."

"I understand you were not quite——"

"No, sir. I did feel a little annoyed about it this morning, because it happened I had invited a friend of mine to breakfast, and I was a trifle mortified to find him treated in such an ungentlemanly manner."

"I am deeply sorry—but the wood ——"

"Yes, well I would have been happy to have attended to the wood, but I had a business engagement and could not wait. Good morning, sir, good morning."—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE following rules governed the guests at a leap-year party recently given in Nebraska City: "1. The gentleman whose bouquet is not mashed in the first dance will be a witness to the fact that he has been held with propriety. 2. No gentleman shall cross the floor without a lady attendant. 3. If a gentleman goes for a glass of water unattended by a lady he will at once be declared out of order and will be compelled to be seated. 4. Gentlemen are expected to be languid, to drop their handkerchiefs as often as possible, and make frequent calls for water, and behave in the most ladylike manner in all things."

BAD BLIZZARD!

The East is Swept by a Storm That Obstructs Travel and Telegraph Communication.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 13.—For the first time in the existense of telegraph Baltimore was cut off from communication with New York and Washington for over twenty-four hours. From Sunday night not only were the wires down, but hundreds of telegraph poles along both the Western Union and the railroads were broken.

A mild rain set in Sunday morning from the east, but soon the wind veered to the northeast, blowing a gale, and by nightfall the worst blizzard that has swept this section in twenty years was blowing.

The temperature fell twenty degrees in ten hours. By 9 o'clock, Sunday night, the snow was six inches deep and all communication was cut off, the wind blowing about fifty miles an hour. The travel through the streets of the city was dangerous, as the tin roofs and chimneys went flying along the streets.

Telegraph poles holding twenty and thirty wires each were blown down in different parts of the city. The tide yesterday was lower than ever known in the memory of old wharf men, being at least twelve feet below the level of ordinary low water, and as a consequence many deep draught vessels, lying in different docks, were grounded. At County dock, at the foot of Broadway, the water was so low that the bottom was bared and persons could walk dry shod on the soil thus exposed.

It is the opinion of old bay captains that Sunday night was one of the worst ever experienced on Chesapeake Bay, and as notice of the storm was so short, there were doubtless many disasters. No vessel could live in the bay Sunday night.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—For several years there has not been such an absolute dearth of telegraphic communication with the east as there was yesterday and last night. Though intensely cold, Pittsburg suffered little from the storm of Sunday night. Eastward the blizzard rolled down the mountain side and through the Juniata valley, scattering fences, breaking telegraph wires, unsetting small frame buildings and causing great loss in various ways.

It was a bad night for the Pennsylvania train men. Many freight trains were compelled to take the siding and wait until this morning.

A short distance east of here last night a brakemen was blown from the top of a car, but not dangerously injured. Train men pronounce it the worst storm ever known in these regions.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—Business on the Pennsylvania, between this city and Philadelphia, is completely paralyzed. No trains have arrived from the east since last night. Everything is blockaded with snow. All freight trains are snow bound and there is little or no prospect of getting out for at least twenty-four hours.

At some places the snow has drifted as high as five feet, and there are miles and miles of freight trains waiting to get through.

Never before in the history of railroads has there been such a blockade.

The cold weather is very severe on freight brakemen, as most of them are snow-bound several miles from any station or habitation. The passengers on the trains will also have to suffer, as the thermometer at most places is below zero. No mails have arrived from the east since 6 o'clock last evening and it is estimated that 60,000 letters alone are snow-bound between Pittsburg and Philadelphia.

Telegraphic communication is still almost entirely cut off.

CHICAGO, March 13—There is but one duplex wire to New York that can be used, while Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia are completely cut off from direct communication with the west. The storm, it is reported, has subsided this morning.

NEW YORK, March 13.—There has been only a partial resumption of traffic in this city. The elevated railroad trains are running at intervals, but are wholly inadequate for the requirements. Most of the business men who have to come down town, this morning were forced to walk.

Sleighs and carriages are in great demand. The wind is still blowing furiously and the snow is badly drifted, being piled in many places six and eight feet high. The communication with Washington and all points south of New York is still entirely cut off. No surface cars are running. The snow is frozen so hard that plows cannot be used and gangs of men with shovels and picks are endeavoring to clear the roads.

Most of the people who got down to their business yesterday were unable to get back. Hotel accomodations were swarmed to their utmost. Stores and offices were converted into sleeping apartments for the benefit of the employes.

Many girls were compelled to accept such quarters. A majority of the theaters closed last night. A milk famine is threatened. A tenement house in West Forty-third street burned early this morning. Twenty families had to run for their lives. Most of them are scantily dressed. They were given shelter in a neighboring saloon building.

UTICA, N. Y., March 13.—The storm has abated but the extraordinary fall of snow compietely blocks travel. The fast mail and fast Atlantic express due in New York early this morning are at the depot. The passengers are playing cards and otherwise amusing themselves. No trains arrived to-day and none are expected.

LYING IN STATE.

Loyal and Loving Subjects Mourn the Death of Their Emperor and View His Beloved Form.

BERLIN, March 12.—A living wall of martyrs to loyalty and curiosity patiently waited to enter the cathedral yesterday. The men could hardly be distinguished from the women, on account of the thick coatings of snow which covered their garments. The back portion in the cathedral has been converted into a sloping platform, This is covered with a black serge and is intended for the reception of the floral offerings of the public. On either side of the altar stand laurel trees and lofty exotic plants, embeded in a masss of flowers in full bloom.

A continuous stream of people passed over the bridge, which affords a view of the catafalque. Prince William stood for an hour, superintending the arrangements and giving the final orders, during which time fifty stalwart guards du corps, with fine features and dressed in showy uniforms and belmets, bearing silver eagles, all men picked from the first families in the land, laid floral wreaths at the feet of the dead emperor and then knelt and recited short prayers.

BERLIN, March 13.—Emperor Frederick passed a good night. He received a deputation of Berlin aldermen at Charlottenburg palace to-day.

HARMONIOUS REPUBLICANS.

Major McKinley Refuses to Allow His Name to be Used for Delegate.

CHICAGO, March 13.—A special from Columbus, Ohio, to the Tribune says: "The latest defection of prominent republicans from the ranks of Sherman supporters is that of Major McKinley, who refuses to allow the use of his name as delegate. This action is the more unaccountable from the fact that the major has attended every national convention in the last fifteen years, and has always taken a prominent part, several times representing Ohio on the committee on resolutions.

"Major McKinley is among the leading republicans of the state, and his refusal to champion the candidacy of Sherman in the role of a delegate, bodes no good to the latter. His action will likely have the effect of securing delegates from his district inimical to Sherman. His position will be a tower of strength to the opponents of the senator. The defection of Major McKinley is followed by W. H. West, 'the blind man eloquent,' a representative and leading republican, who presented the name of Blaine at the Chicago convention in 1884. Judge West announces that he is taking no part in politics this year."

TOO MUCH ENJOYMENT.

A Hilarious Time Unfitted a Man to Drive Home.

MARION, Ind., March 13.—William Lyons, residing several miles from this city died yesterday morning. Several days ago, Lyons came to Marion, fell in with some boon companions and had a very hilarious time. On the way home, his team ran away and he was dragged a considerable distance, sustaining injuries that proved fatal.

HURLED DOWN A ROCKY CHASM.

Vague Report of a Terrible Accident to a Canadian Pacific Passenger Train.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 13.—A Winnipeg special to the Pioneer Press says it is reported that a trestle has given way at North Bay, throwing a Canadian Pacific passenger train into a rocky chasm. The report is not yet confirmed.

Rabbi Frey's Return.

WABASH, Ind., March 13.—Rabbi Sigmund Frey, who has become somewhat notorious as the rabbi who can not hold a position because of constant persecution by his wife, has returned to Wabash. The rabbi states that since leaving here he was engaged by a Chicago congregation, but Mrs. Frey heard of it, and came up from Cincinnati and blackened his reputation so much that he had to leave. The woman, who has sworn to drive Frey out of every situation he secured, has now agreed to persecute no more, and will be paid a monthly allowance by the rabbi, who is arranging to go to a distant point.

A Destructive Fire.

MARIETTA, Ohio, March 13.—A destructive fire occurred here this morning, involving the loss of the Register building, office and book store, W. A. Sniffen, hats and clothing; Seiple & Co., dry goods; Mrs. Burlingame, millinery, and H. Lord, shoe store. The total loss is $60,000. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

DESERT THEIR POSTS

The C., M. & St. P. Engineers Desert Their Engines When Ordered to Handle "Q" Freight.

CHICAGO, March 13.—General Superintendent Collins, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, notified the Burlington officials that he was now ready to handle Chicago, Burlington and Quincy freight, but when he undertook it the engineers deserted their engines.

The new contract for the fast mail service, between Chicago and Council Bluffs, with the Burlington road has been postponed for one week in consequence of the troubles on that road.

THE WABASH CASE.

No matter what the decision of Judge Gresham may be in the Wabash matter, which was intended for a test case, there is likely to be trouble on General Manager McNulta's road.

Chief Arthur advised Chairman Hanley, of the Wabash grievance committee, to take care of all freight consigned to the Wabash road, whether it came from the Burlington as local or through freight, taking the ground that the road being in the hands of the United States court, was in a peculiar position and ought not be interfered with.

Judge Gresham will render his decision in the Wabash case to-morrow morning.

THE ST LOUIS SAENGERBUND.

Thirty-five Hundred Voices in the Chorus and Noted Soloists.

St. Louis, Mo. March 13.—The managers of the Saengerbund have made the following selection of soloists for the coming festival: Mrs. Lilli Lehmann-Kalisch, soprano; Mrs. Anna Lanhow, contralto; Max Alvary, first tenor; Paul Kalisch, second tenor; Ernest Fischer, bass; Emile Hagar, baritone.

Miss Adele Ausder Ohe will be the piano accompanist. The chorus will consist of 3,500 voices; representing more than 100 societies from eighteen states. They will be under the direction of Professor Egmont Froliche, of St. Louis. Apart from the solos and choruses the management have arranged to permit six societies to sing selections of their own, but no society with less than forty voices will be permitted to sing except in chorus.

FORGED CHECKS.

A Number of Them Issued on Berghoff Brothers.

This morning a bogus check calling for $42 came to Berghoff Bros. and was pronounced a forgery.

Gerson Scherzinger, of the Custer house took the paper from "Wm. Nodle, of Cincinnati" and advanced $5 on it. Nodle represented himself as a malt agent and said he sold an order to the Berghoff's. Mr. Scherzinger did not trust him and made it a point to interview Mr. Herman Berghoff and ascertain the character of the check.

Nodle, by this time had vanished and is out of town.

It is said that he passed similar checks on other people.

Holman for Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Indiana democrats here are mentioning the name of Representative Holman for governor, and say that if he was given a solid indorsement by the delegation from his district, he might be nominated as a compromise between the Myers, Matson and Cobb forces. It is stated that Judge Holman would prefer this to a return to congress.

HEWITT AND THE IRISH FLAG.

An Alderman Proposes to Test the Authority of the New York Mayor.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Alderman Divver will offer a resolution asking the commissioner of public works to direct the janitor of the city hall, Martin Keese, to hoist the Irish flag next Saturday, St. Patricks day. He said that he was aware that thereby he would fly in the face of the mayor's declaration that no national flag but the American flag should fly from the city hall while he was bossing things in this city. Mr. Divver said it was his intention to have it decided whether or not Mayor Hewitt had power enough to enforc his view, and also determined how much sand there is in the board of alderman. He believed that the resolution would be passed.

IT COMES HIGH.

Diedrich Meyer Sued by Charles Lonergon for $5,000.

Charles J. Lonergon to-day filed suit in the circuit court to recover $5,000 damages from Deidrich Meyer. Mr. P. B. Colerick penned the complaint.

Mr. Lonergon alleges that Mr. Meyer, who is a carpenter in the Pittsburg shop, charged him with stealing a watch from his pocket. Meyer is said to have been in liquor and said "that d—d thief, Lonergon, stole my watch." When Meyer got sober he found his ticker. Now Mr. Lonergon wants Meyer to settle for the free use of his language.

COL. C. C. MATSON.

The Great Soldier Congressman Talks of the Political Outlook.

Col. C. C. Matson, of Greencastle, Ind., is a guest of the Wayne hotel.

Colonel Matson represents the Fifth Indiana district in congress and has done so with distinguished honor to himself and the state for four successive terms.

In the forty-eighth, forty-ninth and the present congress he has served as chairman of the committee on invalid pensions and is regarded as the best and staunchest friend and advocate that the war veterans have ever had in the lower house, and justly so, for he is one of them, having merited the rank of colonel for bravery in the service. He enlisted as a private soldier at the beginning of the late war, in the Sixteenth Indiana regiment, and after one year's service there, became a member of the Sixth Indiana cavalry, filling different grades in that company up to that of colonel of the Seventy-first, to which the Sixth cavalry belonged; after the close of the war he took up the profession of law under the auspices of his father, who was a former member of congress and followed the profession until he was elected to the Forty-seventh congress, and has since been successively elected to the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth congresses, giving him wide public experience and national fame.

Colonel Matson is now a democratic candidate for governor of Indiana and is leading in the race. He comes here to meet his democratic friends and make new ones in the interest of his candidacy.

"I have been over the state," replied the colonel to THE SENTINEL interviewer, "and find the party stronger than it ever was. Will we win, you ask?" continued he. "If I did not feel that victory was certain, I would not be working so hard for the nomination. I never have and hope I never will make a losing fight. I find that the best of feeling prevails everywhere, for the people have the greatest confidence in the administration of President Cleveland and consequent favor for the party he represents."

Dempsey Wants to Meet Mitchell.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 13.—Jack Dempsey, the pugilist, arrived in Pittsburg yesterday. He expressed his surprice at the result of the Sullivan-Mitchell fight, and said that he was anxious to meet the latter in a fight to a finish, either in this country or England for any amount of money.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Wm. E. Eldridge, the floor walker of a prominent dry goods store, was arrested for stealing $2,000 worth of silks, etc. These were recovered from his house. He was a member of the Methodist church. It is said he was getting $12 per week and was tormented with the dread of what would become of his wife and children if he lost employment or was sick. So he began to steal last Christmas. He had not disposed of any goods.

WASHINGTON.

The Senators Looking Into Civil Service Reform.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Mr. Hale called up the resolution offered by him for the appointment of a special committee to examine fully into the present condition of the civil service in all branches of the government.

Mr. Cockrell offered an amendment to extend the inquiry to the extent of the pernicious partisan activity of the republican officials since the executive order of President Hayes, of June, 1877, particularly in the presidential elections of 1880 and 1884. The amendment was defeated by a strict party vote; yeas 24, nays 29, and the original resolution was adopted.

HOUSE.

Mr. White's resolution, providing for congressional inquiry into the strike on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, was again discussed without final result to-day by the house committee on commerce.

If the throat trouble of the Crown Prince of Germany causes his death soon the heir to the throne will be his eldest son, Prince Wilhelm, of whom the Countess von Krockow writes: "The Germans cannot forgive an heir apparent of the throne having been born mediocre in figure and imperfectly formed. Prince Wilhelm has a crippled arm. The fingers are mere knobs. In the Hussar uniform there is a pocket, and he wears it because the three fingers of the helpless member can be hung in the pocket. Otherwise it hangs awkwardly and helplessly in its sleeve. His horses are especially trained, and before the Prince is to mount, are ridden three-quarters of an hour to wear them down. He can just manage to hold the reigns. We were together in a country house. I looked with the hostess at the fork with which he eats. It is of silver and not conspicuously different from others, but fixed to the under tine there is a sharp, small blade. What the Prince cannot cut with the one hand and with this blade he does not undertake to eat. The right hand and arm are large and of extraordinary dexterity, but the little finger is deformed by a growth which the Prince only imperfectly conceals by wearing rings up to near the third phalange."

E. A. K. HACKETT, Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1888.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND will tempt the mountain trout of West Virginia in May in company with ex-Senator Davis.

IT is said at Washington that if ex-Congressman Cobb fails to secure the appointment of land commissioner, he wants to be nominated for governor of Indiana. Mr. Cobb's simple "wants" will not insure satisfaction to his desires.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSIONER EDGERTON is reported as saying he hopes no Indiana democrat will be nominated for vice-president, adding: "Indiana has taken the leavings long enough. They have always been so ready to take just anything, though, that it never occurs to anybody to offer them first choice."

ROBERT T. LINCOLN has written a letter saying: "While I maintain and manifest interest in public affairs, my interest will never again be official." Mr. Lincoln, like Mr. Blaine, happily perceives the situation and will not be the republican sacrifice lamb. Let us make Mr. Cleveland's election unanimous.

HON. J. W. FRENCH, editor of the Lafayette Journal, has filed his resignation as state senator from Posey county, and will canvass for the office of superintendent of public instruction. Mr. French is one of the prominent democrats of the state and a gentleman who will honor any position of trust within the gift of the people.

THE New York Herald has this withering reference to the Gazette's presidential favorite: "Judge Gresham may have a small sized presidential bee in his bonnet or he may not. Time alone will discover that secret. At any rate, he will feel gratified at the estimation in which he is held by the Indiana farmers. One of them said to our correspondent that he is 'quick and strong as lightnin', and clear and square as a winder pane.'"

CONGRESSMAN RANDALL introduced his tariff and reform bill to the house of representatives yesterday. The estimated reductions under this bill will be: On internal revenue taxation, $70,000,000; estimated reduction on tariff schedules, $25,000,000. The bill is fully twice as long as the Mills bill and relates to many more subjects, ignoring, of course, the interests of the Pennsylvania millionaires to whose good graces Mr. Randall owes his seat in congress. Since all sides, however, are agreed that tariff and revenue reforms are necessary, they can certainly combine on an honest democratic measure.

Colonel Matson for Governor.

[Logansport Pharos.]

The candidacy of Col. Courtland C. Matson, of Greencastle, for governor, is now authoritatively announced and he enters the list of avowed candidates with as much, if not more prestige, than anyone whose name has been mentioned in connection with the democratic nomination for governor. Both his civil and military records are conspicuously brilliant and worthy of commendation. His four consecutive terms of service in congress has made him familiar with public affairs and qualifies him to fill the distinguished position of governor of Indiana creditably. His democracy is unquestioned, and judging from his congressional campaigns it is of that aggressive kind that fights an offensive battle and forces the enemy to the defensive on all questions.

AT an auction sale in Boston of the collection of autographs and manuscripts of the late Ben: Perley Poore, following are some of the prices realized: Robert Fulton, $17; Sir Edmund Andros, $6; Thomas Lord Culpeper, $8.25; John Endicott, $10; Governor Thomas Heneley, of Plymouth, $9.35; John Campbell, Governor of Virginia, $6; William Penn, $26; William H. Seward, 25 cents; George Grote, historian, $19.50; Hannibal Hamlin, 5 cents. Five autograph letters of Hawthorne brought respectively, $18, $12, $13, $5 and $12. Three letters from "Stonewall" Jackson sold for $25 each; two from General Robert E Lee, $24 and $25; one from Captain Henry Wirz, the Andersonville Prison keeper, $34; William Penn, $26; Thomas Jefferson, $7; Disraeli, $11; Charles Dickens, $10.50; John Hancock, $2.50; Governor Gage, $2.75; Roger Sherman, $2.50.

PORTLAND, Me., has a gambler whose recent exhibition of nerve has given him great honor among the fancy. He was behind the faro table the other night when several men from a neighboring town came in and sat down to the game. Play ran high until $750 was on the table waiting the turn of the card. The gambler had before this made up his mind that the outsiders had put up some sort of a job on him and were going to beat him; so he whipped out a revolver and coolly announced that he was going to take everything in sight, and if anybody objected let him say so. No one objected. The revolver was a card no one could beat, and the Portland sport, quietly sweeping everything off the table into the drawer, locked it and said the game was closed.

The Element of Destiny.

One might roughly indicate the differences between ordinary men and men of eminent mark by referring to their relative possession of a consciousness of destiny. So often has a sense of being set apart and devoted to something accompanied great capacity that it would seem to be a natural and legitimate help to the carrying out of any arduous undertaking. Schopenhauer declares that no one can be blind to his own merit, any more than the man who is six feet high can remain ignorant of the fact that he towers above his fellows. He notes the pride with which Horace, Lucretius, Ovid, Dante, Shakespeare, and Bacon have spoken of themselves, and quotes the Englishman who wittily observed that merit and modesty have nothing in common except the initial letter. "I have always a suspicion about modest celebrities," he adds, "that they may be right. Goethe has frankly said, 'Only good-for-nothings are modest.'"

Certainly, the great German himself came well within the limits of his own estimate of worth, for no one would ever think of accusing him of being without personal poise and absolute confidence in the powers which influence human success. "I begin with this," he told his mother as a small boy; "later on in life I shall distinguish myself in far other ways." The fact is that as long as he lived Goethe believed in oracles, and was as willing as Rousseau to trust his fortunes to the merest process of chance. Rousseau was to be saved in the other world if the stone he threw hit the tree at which it was aimed, and had Goethe caught the plunge of the valuable pocket knife which he tossed into the river Lahn from behind the bushes where he stood, he might have become a painter instead of a poet. There may be a "divinity" that shapes the ends of all men, but only the exceptional individual seems at all conscious of the fact, or in the way of turning it to practical account, by actually relying upon it in daily life.

Thus it comes about that demonic men, men of a definite bent and direction which they cannot resist, are given to trusting more than those whose standpoint is merely personal and commonplace. Greene, the historian, tells us that "Elizabeth had, as all strong natures have, an unbounded confidence in her luck." "Her Majesty counts much on Fortune," Walsingham wrote bitterly; "I wish she would trust more in Almighty God." Lincoln never for an instant doubted that he was formed for some "great or miserable end," and freely talked about the impression to this effect which had been with him all his life, and which after the year 1840 assumed the character of positive conviction. His biographer asserts that this presentiment was as clear and certain as any image conveyed by the senses. "The star under which he was born was at once brilliant and malignant. The horoscope was cast, fixed, irreversible, and he had no more power to divert it in the minutest particular than he had to reverse the law of gravitation."—Atlantic.

"Nasal Voices, Catarrh and False Teeth."

A prominent English woman says the American women all have high, shrill, nasal voices and false teeth.

Americans don't like the constant twitting they get about this nasal twang and yet it is a fact caused by our dry stimulating atmosphere; and the universal presence of catarrhal difficulties.

But why should so many of our women have false teeth?

That is more of a poser to the English. It is quite impossible to account for it except on the theory of deranged stomach action caused by imprudence in eating and by want of regular exercise.

Both conditions are unnatural.

Catarrhal troubles everywhere prevail and end in cough and consumption, which are promoted by mal-nutrition induced by deranged stomach action. The condition is a modern one, one unknown to our ancestors who prevented the catarrh, cold, cough and consumption by abundant and regular use of what is now known as Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy and Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, two old fashioned standard remedies handed down from our ancestors and now exclusively put forth under the strongest guarantees of purity and efficacy by the world famed makers of Warner's safe cure. These two remedies plentifully used as the spring and summer seasons advance give a positive assurance of freedom, both from catarrh and those dreadful and if neglected, inevitable consequences, pneumonia, lung troubles and consumption, which so generally and fatally prevail among our people.

Comrade Eli Fisher, of Salem, Henry county, Iowa, served four years in the late war and contracted a disease called consumption by the doctors. He had frequent hemorrhages. After using Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy, he says, under date of Jan, 19, 1888: "I do no bleed at the lungs any more, my cough does not bother me, and I do not have any more smothering spells." Warner's Log Cabin Rose Cream cured his wife of catarrh and she is "sound and well."

Of course we do not like to have our women called nose talkers and false teeth owners, but these conditions can be readily overcome in the manner indicated.

HE WAS CONVERTED.

What Changed a Republican Protectionist Into a Democratic Tariff Reformer.

The following communication appeared in the Indianapolis Sentinel yesterday:

SIR—Fort Wayne, as most people are aware, is considerable of manufacturing center. Many years ago there was established here a hub and spoke factory, which grew into immense proportions, employing hundreds of men. Our people were proud of the establishment, favorably inclined to the men who managed it. The young man who was the life of the institution, furnished it brains and energy and made it a success, began to look for other worlds to conquer. He concluded that there was money to be made in the manufacture of wagons, and that other people in Indiana had a right to that business as well as the Studebakers, of South Bend. Like them he had always been a republican, brought up, trained and educated in their school of politics. Without having given the matter much thought, engrossed as he was in other affairs, he had accepted as true the theory that in some mysterious way he was benefitted by a protective tariff, and consequently was an ardent republican. With the enterprise and sagacity born of business trading and experience, he established wagon works at this city with a capacity for making a wagon every working ten minutes, or sixty wagons per day of ten hours. His enterprise thrived and grew apace. He sent his men into the southwest, established a great trade especially in Texas, to which "Lone Star" state he sent many thousands of wagons. Rumor brought to his ears the fact that wagons sold for high prices in Mexico. The dividing line was the Rio Grande river so small in the dry season that an expert trout fisher can cast a fly twice its width. Our manufacturer sent an accredited agent across the river to arrange to sell his wagons. He found the demand good, the price magnificent, and was about to start a thriving trade. But one of the minions of the red-eyed law called his attention to the tariff law of that free republic of the southwest, Mexico, which contained the following provisions relative to tariff on imports—"Wagons, all classes and dimensions, each $80.00." The agent returned with feathers down and reported to his principal. The manufacturers' "bile rose in gorge." For the first time he appreciated the blessings of a protective tariff. He ceased to advise his workmen to vote for the G. O. R. P. The scales fell from his eyes and he is now a stalwart democrat revenue reformer.

The body is more susceptible to benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla now than at any other season. Therefore take it now.

PREPARATIONS for the Paris Exposition of 1889 are advancing rapidly. The central portion of the Champ de Mars, which is to be planted with elms and surrounded by terraces, has already received the trees. The new tower has reached the height of 165 feet, but whether it will be carried 1,000 feet high appears doubtful to many. The exposition will celebrate the destruction of the Bastile, and its sole aim is the introduction and encouragement of industries.

THE Russians are pushing forward the Trans-Caspian Railroad as rapidly as some of our own roads have advanced. The people of Bokhara never saw so novel a sight before as the spectacle of the 7,000 men who are now grading the road through the country where a few years ago no undisguised white man was safe for a moment. The road is now ready for the rails for four-fifths of the way between the Oxus and Samarcand, nearly three hundred miles, but the track cannot be laid until the bridge over the Oxus is completed. This bridge, now more than half finished, will be three miles long, and will be one of the largest structures of the sort in the world. It will connect the road now completed to the Oxus with the extension to Samarcand, and next spring the ancient capital of Tamerlane will be connected by steam with the western world.

To imagine that the treatment of Constipation consists merely in unloading the bowels. The medicine must not only act as a purgative, but be a tonic as well, and not produce after its use greater costiveness. This is what Simmons Liver Regulator always does.

"As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels."—W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

Believe us, when we tell you that most of the despondent feeling (the blues) is the effect of a Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Weakness of Stomach, and Nervousness. A dose of Simmons Liver Regulator invariably relieves, cures and prevents a re-occurrence.

"I find Simmons Liver Regulator, very safe, harmless and valuable as a family medicine, and have used it for any disorder of the system and have found it to act like a charm, and I believe that if it was used in time, it would prove a great preventive of sickness. I have often recommended it to my friends, and shall continue to do so."—Rev. JAMES. M. ROLLINS, Fairfield, Va.

Simmons Liver Regulator is given with safety and with the happiest results, in almost any ailment, to the most delicate infant as well as to the adult. For all diseases in which a laxative, alterative, or purgative is needed, it will give the most perfect satisfaction. It is the cheapest, purest and best Family Medicine in the world.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder diseases. Their combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Drinks of Many Nations.

In Mohammedan countries very little alcohol is consumed in proportion to the number of people. The koran denies the seductive pleasures of its material paradise to mussulmans who indulge in the flowing bowl of Bacchus here below. The whole Persian nation belong to the Shiah faith. Its 10,000,000 of people are governed with the same ease as the same number of sheep might be by a few officials who care nothing for their welfare except to squeeze them like an orange whenever they feel like it. The 10,000,000 never touch anything intoxicating from one year's end to another. The governing few consume raw, fiery arrack by the pint daily, in wanton disregard of the koran and its teachings.

Taken all in all, perhaps the English residents in India spend more money for drink than any other people in the world. Plenty of people are, of course, ready to condemn this sort of thing, and say the Anglo-Indians ought to quench thier thirst with non-intoxicants. More lemonade and less brandy and champagne, it is claimed, would materially lessen the rate of mortality from enlarged spleen, the bane of Anglo-Indian life. This may be strictly true, but the fact remains that a mere handful of hard-drinking Britons are administering the affairs of 200,000,000 practically non-drinking people.

Some of the natives of India consume more or less arrack and palm toddy, but the Brahmins, the gentlest and easiest governed people in the world, drink nothing stronger than water. The only tribe of people in India who drink to excess are the Zats of the Punjaub. The festive Zat gets drunk on arrack, and indulges in manly sports like a civilized being. On the field of battle he is equal to a round dozen non-drinking Hindoos, and forms to-day the flower of the native British-Indian army. He it was that stood firmly by the English during the mutiny, and performed prodigies of valor scarcely second to Tommy Atkins himself.

No nation in Asia drinks so persistently and steadily as do the Japanese. The average Jap consumes about half a pint of sake or rice beer with each meal—a pint and a half per day—saying nothing about further social indulgence in the evening. Both men and women drink sake by the pint daily, and think no harm of it, either. At meal-times the sake is served up in slender, big-necked, earthenware bottles holding about a pint. The favorite way is to drink it warm. It is usually warmed by setting the bottle in boiling water for awhile before putting it on the table. Rice beer is a rather deceptive name to give sake, as it resembles liquor more than beer, both in color and consistency and intoxicating property.

The Russians are a nation of hard drinkers. Vodka is consumed by the Muscovite peasantry in vast quantities. The moujik's idea of a holiday is to get skin-full of vodka and then lie down and hang on to the ground. This laudable performance is gone through with by the Russian peasant as often as he can procure the necessary quantity of vodka.

The Chinese as a nation consume very little intoxicating drink, although they make a beverage from rice called "torri," almost the counterpart of the sake of Japan.

The Turks are a nation that drink next to nothing of a stimulating character, unless tiny cups of strong black coffee may be so considered.

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

Found.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

DR. JOHN ASHURST, JR., says that in opening a felon the parts to be avoided are lines of the arteries and that of the flexor tendon, which is the median line. The felon should be opened midway between the artery and tendon. If necessary, it can be opened on both sides. If the sheath of the tendon be opened the tendon will almost always slough, and the finger will be useless.

PROF. HORSLEY alluded to the series of experiments on the influence of alcohol upon plant life carried out by Dr. Ridge, of Enfield, who found that one-sixteenth per cent. of a solution of alcohol checked the growth of watercress, and that a tenth solution of alcohol killed its seeds. The position of the medical profession with regard to alcohol as a food was becoming more and more defined.

SOME curious results produced by exploding marked blocks of gun cotton on flat plates of wrought iron have been described by Mr. C. E. Monroe. The gun cotton blocks were placed with the lettered side down, and the letters stamped in relief appeared in relief on the iron after explosion, while, on the other hand, the letters depressed in the gun cotton were also depressed on the iron plate.

THE last eclipse of the sun seems to have produced more effect upon animals than upon man. La Nature says that, at Berlin, birds that were in full song at sunrise suddenly became silent, and, when the darkness was deepest, showed their inquietude by cries of fear. It was remarked by observers that perroquets were the most alarmed, while canary birds appeared to be the most indifferent to the astronomical phenomenon.

ANTS not only recognize one another after separation for more than a year, but there are evidences of strong affection between them. After keeping one nest of ants for seven years, Sir John Lubbock had still two survivors, and this pair finally died within a week of each other after living together two years longer. The shock produced by the loss of her companion was the only apparent cause of the death of the last member of this remarkable colony.

AN English educational writer states that the existence of what he terms "sound blindness" was suggested to him by the difficulties some persons experience in learning to spell and to pronounce foreign languages. The phenomenon is evidently inability to distinguish particular shades of sound, and is analogous to color-blindness. Among illustrations given is that of a boy who, though not deaf, could hear no difference between "very," "perry," and "polly."

THE rapid increase in the use of electricity as a motive power gives special interest to the discovery that palladium, a metal of the platinum group, but of far lower density than the latter, may be substituted for steel in the manufacture of watches. Palladium is absolutely nonpolarizable, and it is unaffected to any noticeable extent by the presence of a magnetic field. Besides this it has the incidental advantage of being rust-proof. The discovery is due to Mr. C. A. Paillard of Geneva, Switzerland, and watches are now being constructed with this metal.

MRS. E. P. BAILEY, wife of the editor of the Utica Observer, has invented a contrivance for the convenience and comfort of the sick which is very highly spoken of in the hospitals where it has been tried. Two iron sockets are attached firmly to the sides of the bedstead by screws, and into these are fitted short poles, and between the poles is suspended a horizontal bar, also fitted into clamps and adjustable to any highth above the patient lying on the bed. From this bar hang a pair of strong straps with grips, and these can be moved from right to left at will. By grasping these straps the sick man can utilize the strength of his arms to lift himself up, to change his position, to turn over, and to allow the bedding to be changed. There are a variety of attachments to the invention which extend its usefulness indefinitely. One is a rest for the leg, in which a broken limb can be placed while it is being dressed. It is only necessary to unscrew the sockets attached to the bedstead and change their location to utilize this. Another is a small table for medicines, a book, anything a patient wants within immediate reach. Another is a curtain rod, likely to be especially serviceable in hospital wards to avoid a draught, to shut out the light, or to afford a degree of privacy.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly, and I have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the Balm have only had one and that was very light compared with other former ones. J. A. Alcorn, Agent U. P. R. R., Eaton, Colorado.

I find Ely's Cream Balm good for catarrh of long standing.—M. N. Lasley, 1,934 West Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky.

The Owner of It All.

At Northwest Upper Village, Lower Falls—which the reader will at once know is a thriving village in Massachusetts—a young man came to the hotel to take me over to see "our hall." He wore a visorless cap that was intended to be an impression of an imitation of astrakhan, and his overcoat was trimmed with fur which had withstood the ravages of time and moth about as well as fur trimming can be expected to withstand the ravages of those relentless foes during a constant and pitiless struggle of seventeen long and weary years. He was a pleasant and evidently a professional young man, who explained the "accoosticks" of "our hall" to me; showed me what improvements "we" had made and contemplated making; said that three parties of "his people" were on this circuit now; he was playing them on two and three night stands; wouldn't do any other kind of business; would rather keep his people on the road on expense than hold them over at a one-night town. That was the reason he didn't like to handle lecturers. He had hesitated some time before taking me, and only did so to please some of the old patrons of the opera-house. He didn't care to handle lecturers.

I said they were a mean lot of citizens.

He placidly assented, and told me I had better leave the setting of the stage to him, as lecturers knew nothing about such things. He always managed Beecher and Gough when they came on this circuit, but—

Just then a short, fat man with a scowl that looked as though it had been stolen from the property man came on the stage.

"Bill," he roared, "there's three inches of dust in them boxes. Git into 'em right away, and then go down and shift the coal over, as I told you."

And as Bill fled into "them boxes" and went to work I saw that the removal of his overcoat displayed a red-flannel shirt and a paper collar. The janitor told me Bill was a handy sort of a fellow about the house, but so all-killin' lazy you had to keep after him with a club all the time.—Burdette.

No Universal Remedy

has yet been discovered; but, as at least four-fifths of human diseases have their source in Impure Blood, a medicine which restores that fluid from a depraved to a healthy condition comes as near being a universal cure as any that can be produced. Ayer's Sarsaparilla affects the blood in each stage of its formation, and is, therefore, adapted to a greater variety of complaints than any other known medicine.

Boils and Carbuncles,

which defy ordinary treatment, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla after a comparatively brief trial.

Mr. C. K. Murray, of Charlottesville, Va., writes that for years he was afflicted with boils which caused him much suffering. These were succeeded by carbuncles, of which he had several at one time. He then began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles, the carbuncles disappeared, and for six years he has not had even a pimple.

That insidious disease, Scrofula, is the fruitful cause of innumerable complaints, Consumption being only one of many equally fatal. Eruptions, ulcers, sore eyes, glandular swellings, weak and wasted muscles, a capricious appetite, and the like, are pretty sure indications of a scrofulous taint in the system. Many otherwise beautiful faces are disfigured by pimples, eruptions, and unsightly blotches, which arise from impure blood, showing the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to remedy the evil.

All sufferers from blood disorders should give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial.—avoiding all powders, ointments, and washes, and especially cheap and worthless compounds, which not only fail to effect a cure, but more frequently aggravate and confirm the diseases they are fraudulently advertised to remedy.

The pain from Neuralgia and its companion disease Rheumatism is excruciating. Thousands who could be quickly cured are needlessly suffering. Ath-lo-pho-ros will do for others what it did for the following parties:

Williamsport, Ind., Oct. 3, 1887.
Having been afflicted with neuralgia for the past four years, and trying almost everything, but in vain, I finally heard of Athlophoros. After taking one bottle I found it to be helping me, and after taking four bottles of Athlophoros and one of Pills, I found that I was entirely well. I think the medicine is positively a sure cure.
CHAUNCEY B. REDDICK.

Mt. Carmel, Ill., Dec. 26, 1887.
I have used Athlophoros in my family and find it to be the greatest medicine for neuralgia in existence and having had its fangs fastened upon me for the past 30 years I know whereof I speak. MRS. JULIA CHILTON.

The Irish citizens of Fort Wayne will not participate in any public observance of St. Patrick's day. They are considerably chagrined at the advice proffered as to their behavior on the anniversary of Ireland's patron saint. Pastor Northrop speaks highly of the non-sectarian spirit manifested, all the Protestant churches having adjourned their Sunday services to attend the dedication. Some of the most liberal givers were from other denominations. While in Decatur Pastor and Mrs. Northrop were pleasantly entertained by Mr. L. S. Miller, the auditor and a prominent democrat of the county.

The Olds works will pay off their employes Thursday.

The Wabash took a number of passengers west last evening.

The moulding rooms of the Bass works are in active operation.

James Hartigan, the Nickel Plate engineer, is on the sick list.

W. A. McKinney, of the C., M. and St. P. road, was in the city.

Sylvester Towns, of the electric light works, is confined to his home with a fever.

The Wabash engineers will probably not be compelled to join in the Burlington strike.

The Grand Rapids pay car was in the city to-day and distributed its gold and silver among the employes of that road.

Our railroad reporter is indebted to George Oppels for favors and is glad to mention the fact that the handsome young man is shortly to wed a young lady from Michigan.

Locomotive and car building is going very slow and will continue to do so until the mischevious and business-upsetting strike is ended.

An advance of $1 on second-class tickets between New York and western points is under consideration, with good prospects that it will be made.

The gross earnings of 109 roads for the month of February were $22,118,090, being an increase of $1,907,837 over the earnings of February, 1887.

Robert Harrison, the foreman of the Pittsburg car shops, and his brother, William, left for Toronto, Canada, last night to attend the funeral of a brother.

Thomas Sheppard, of the Pittsburg boiler shops, who has been confined to his home for the last few months with a severe case of sickness, is but very little improved.

During the present year the Lake Shore company proposes to take up all the wooden trestles on the Air Line division and replace them with solid stone. This will clear the division of all wooden structures.

The suspension of the men at the Pittsburg and Bass works and the closing down of the Kerr Murray foundry leaves many out of employment for the time being and there is not a business in the city but will suffer in consequence of it.

Charley Benoy, the machinist in the Bass works who was injured by a fall a few days ago, is still confined to his home from the effects of it. He appears to have been injurned internally and it will be several days before he will return to work again.

A labor organization ought to think 999 times before it acts once in bringing about a strike of any kind. Even though the strikers gain their point the individual members are always left in a worse condition financially. Strikes are terrible, even as a last resort.

August Fromuth, a machinist in the Bass foundry, has gone to Columbia City to superintendent the erection of an engine and boiler by his company for the electric light works of that place. Gus is a handsome fellow and the young ladies of that place will be loth to let him return to Fort Wayne again.

The death roll of railway employes killed in Iowa by the common link and pin coupler and hand freight brake in the single month of December furnishes an appalling total, fifty-four killed and twelve crippled for life. If small casualties, such as the loss of fingers, &c., had been noted, the list would have been doubled.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, with its net work of branches, is one of the most extensive railroads in the country. It extends from Chicago west to Denver and Cheyenne, Col., north to Minneapolis and St. Paul, south to St. Louis and covers an immense tract of country with its 5,000 miles of steel rail. No wonder the "Q" strike is a big affair and has its effect upon the business interests of the country.

Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, says: "A clause in our rules demands the dismissal of any engineer found intoxicated, whether on or off duty, and that he be reported to the officers of the road as an unsafe man to employ. Another clause provides when a man applys for membership he must be examined by a committee of three from the lodge he applies to, and unless he is an engineer of one or more years practical experience, not addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors, and a man of otherwise good character, he will not be accepted. During the last fourteen years not a single brotherhood man has ever deserted his engine without using every possible precaution to save the lives of his passengers, and the public well know how many have died at their post of duty. I attribute this remarkable record to the fact that these men are and must be sober, skilled, moral, intelligent men of nerve and principle. In all this, the great public has been benefitted during the past twenty-five years—during the life of the organization.

Gas Below Salt Water.

Ex-United States Senator Camdon, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, has written the following letter to a leading Fort Wayne citizen:

DEAR SIR:—Yours of the 6th inst. received asking whether gas or oil is ever found below salt water Our experience in West Virginia is that oil and gas is generally found either with salt water, or below it—and I think this is the case in Pennsylvania, and in most oil districts. The salt furnace in the big Kenawha river, were run by the gas that came up with the salt water, many years ago, before oil and gas were known in valuable productions.

We get salt water at various depths in this section of from 300 to 1,000 feet, and oil from 300 to 1,800 feet. I do not give any opinion as an expert, but simply state what I have observed in many instances. Yours,

J. N. CAMDON.

Francis Murphy, the great temperance advocate, wants a law passed making it a crime for a man to treat or be treated. Upon this subject Mr. Murphy said, in Buffalo, last week: "It is an awful thing for a man to say no when he has not been weaned. Look at the effect on a baby that has been on the bottle for two years when you undertake to wean it. What think you, must it be with a man who has been on a bottle for twenty years?"

Some of the Good Reasons Why the Horse Show

At the Academy of Music, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 15, 16 and 17, should be well patronized is that Mr. W. C. Coup has always given the public pure and healthful amusement. Never permitting anything in his exhibitions that a mother could not safely send her daughters to see.

His fortunes have been expended in purifying and elevating amusements.

The showmen all say: "Coup is too extravagant, he gives too much for the money." His entertainments are clean, neat and in fact elegant.

His Boarders.

Mr. Doyle is one of the most polite and kindly of men. He has a lovely home in San Mateo, and, like a great many people who have lovely homes, he does not always know what goes on. One evening Mr. Doyle arrived from the city and his coachman was at the station with his wagon. They drove along home, and, as they came to the gate leading into his preserves, a burly tramp stood leaning against the rail. He did not move to open the gate, so the driver got down and opened it. As soon as he did the tramp calmly walked in and proceeded up the avenue.

"Who is that?" asked Mr. Doyle. "He seems to be a cool kind of a customer."

"That, sir, is one of your boarders."

"My boarders! What do you mean?"

"Don't you know that you have ten or a dozen regular boarders at the house?"

"I didn't know it."

"Oh, yes. They come regularly to breakfast. They are very particular and hard to please."

"Ten or a dozen men breakfast at my house every morning! You just tell the cook that if he gives any one of them another breakfast I'll discharge him. I don't want to turn away any poor devil of a starving man, but if anybody wants a meal you send him out to saw wood for an hour. Then you can give him as much as he can eat."

"There'll be trouble, sir."

Next morning Mr. Doyle was being driven down to the train. As they passed down the road two rather depressed-looking individuals were seen walking ahead.

"There go two of your boarders, sir."

"Those dirty-looking fellows? Did you follow my instructions this morning?"

"We did, sir, and there was an awful row. They were very angry, and we thought there was going to be a fight."

When they reached the two tramps, Mr. Doyle stopped his wagon and spoke.

"I am very sorry, gentlemen, I was compelled to issue rather stringent regulations about breakfast at my place. Of course, I did not mean that they should especially apply to you, gentlemen; but there are so many who impose upon me in that way, and ——"

"No need for excuse Mr. Doyle; don't mention it."

"I understand you were not quite——"

"No, sir. I did feel a little annoyed about it this morning, because it happened I had invited a friend of mine to breakfast, and I was a trifle mortified to find him treated in such an ungentlemanly manner."

"I am deeply sorry—but the wood ——"

"Yes, well I would have been happy to have attended to the wood, but I had a business engagement and could not wait. Good morning, sir, good morning."—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE following rules governed the guests at a leap-year party recently given in Nebraska City: "1. The gentleman whose bouquet is not mashed in the first dance will be a witness to the fact that he has been held with propriety. 2. No gentleman shall cross the floor without a lady attendant. 3. If a gentleman goes for a glass of water unattended by a lady he will at once be declared out of order and will be compelled to be seated. 4. Gentlemen are expected to be languid, to drop their handkerchiefs as often as possible, and make frequent calls for water, and behave in the most ladylike manner in all things."

BAD BLIZZARD!

The East is Swept by a Storm That Obstructs Travel and Telegraph Communication.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 13.—For the first time in the existense of telegraph Baltimore was cut off from communication with New York and Washington for over twenty-four hours. From Sunday night not only were the wires down, but hundreds of telegraph poles along both the Western Union and the railroads were broken.

A mild rain set in Sunday morning from the east, but soon the wind veered to the northeast, blowing a gale, and by nightfall the worst blizzard that has swept this section in twenty years was blowing.

The temperature fell twenty degrees in ten hours. By 9 o'clock, Sunday night, the snow was six inches deep and all communication was cut off, the wind blowing about fifty miles an hour. The travel through the streets of the city was dangerous, as the tin roofs and chimneys went flying along the streets.

Telegraph poles holding twenty and thirty wires each were blown down in different parts of the city. The tide yesterday was lower than ever known in the memory of old wharf men, being at least twelve feet below the level of ordinary low water, and as a consequence many deep draught vessels, lying in different docks, were grounded. At County dock, at the foot of Broadway, the water was so low that the bottom was bared and persons could walk dry shod on the soil thus exposed.

It is the opinion of old bay captains that Sunday night was one of the worst ever experienced on Chesapeake Bay, and as notice of the storm was so short, there were doubtless many disasters. No vessel could live in the bay Sunday night.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—For several years there has not been such an absolute dearth of telegraphic communication with the east as there was yesterday and last night. Though intensely cold, Pittsburg suffered little from the storm of Sunday night. Eastward the blizzard rolled down the mountain side and through the Juniata valley, scattering fences, breaking telegraph wires, unsetting small frame buildings and causing great loss in various ways.

It was a bad night for the Pennsylvania train men. Many freight trains were compelled to take the siding and wait until this morning.

A short distance east of here last night a brakeman was blown from the top of a car, but not dangerously injured. Train men pronounce it the worst storm ever known in these regions.

PITTSBURG, March 13.—Business on the Pennsylvania, between this city and Philadelphia, is completely paralyzed. No trains have arrived from the east since last night. Everything is blockaded with snow. All freight trains are snow bound and there is little or no prospect of getting out for at least twenty-four hours.

At some places the snow has drifted as high as five feet, and there are miles and miles of freight trains waiting to get through.

Never before in the history of railroads has there been such a blockade.

The cold weather is very severe on freight brakemen, as most of them are snow-bound several miles from any station or habitation. The passengers on the trains will also have to suffer, as the thermometer at most places is below zero. No mails have arrived from the east since 6 o'clock last evening and it is estimated that 60,000 letters alone are snow-bound between Pittsburg and Philadelphia.

Telegraphic communication is still almost entirely cut off.

CHICAGO, March 13—There is but one duplex wire to New York that can be used, while Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia are completely cut off from direct communication with the west. The storm, it is reported, has subsided this morning.

NEW YORK, March 13.—There has been only a partial resumption of traffic in this city. The elevated railroad trains are running at intervals, but are wholly inadequate for the requirements. Most of the business men who have to come down town, this morning were forced to walk.

Sleighs and carriages are in great demand. The wind is still blowing furiously and the snow is badly drifted, being piled in many places six and eight feet high. The communication with Washington and all points south of New York is still entirely cut off. No surface cars are running. The snow is frozen so hard that plows cannot be used and gangs of men with shovels and picks are endeavoring to clear the roads.

Most of the people who got down to their business yesterday were unable to get back. Hotel accomodations were swarmed to their utmost. Stores and offices were converted into sleeping apartments for the benefit of the employes.

Many girls were compelled to accept such quarters. A majority of the theaters closed last night. A milk famine is threatened. A tenement house in West Forty-third street burned early this morning. Twenty families had to run for their lives. Most of them are scantily dressed. They were given shelter in a neighboring saloon building.

UTICA, N. Y., March 13.—The storm has abated but the extraordinary fall of snow completely blocks travel. The fast mail and fast Atlantic express due in New York early this morning are at the depot. The passengers are playing cards and otherwise amusing themselves. No trains arrived to-day and none are expected.

LYING IN STATE.

Loyal and Loving Subjects Mourn the Death of Their Emperor and View His Beloved Form.

BERLIN, March 12.—A living wall of martyrs to loyalty and curiosity patiently waited to enter the cathedral yesterday. The men could hardly be distinguished from the women, on account of the thick coatings of snow which covered their garments. The back portion in the cathedral has been converted into a sloping platform. This is covered with a black serge and is intended for the reception of the floral offerings of the public. On either side of the altar stand laurel trees and lofty exotic plants, embeded in a mass of flowers in full bloom.

A continuous stream of people passed over the bridge, which affords a view of the catafalque. Prince William stood for an hour, superintending the arrangements and giving the final orders, during which time fifty stalwart guards du corps, with fine features and dressed in showy uniforms and helmets, bearing silver eagles, all men picked from the first families in the land, laid floral wreaths at the feet of the dead emperor and then knelt and recited short prayers.

BERLIN, March 13.—Emperor Frederick passed a good night. He received a deputation of Berlin aldermen at Charlottenburg palace to-day.

HARMONIOUS REPUBLICANS.

Major McKinley Refuses to Allow His Name to be Used for Delegate.

CHICAGO, March 13.—A special from Columbus, Ohio, to the Tribune says: "The latest defection of prominent republicans from the ranks of Sherman supporters is that of Major McKinley, who refuses to allow the use of his name as delegate. This action is the more unaccountable from the fact that the major has attended every national convention in the last fifteen years, and has always taken a prominent part, several times representing Ohio on the committee on resolutions.

"Major McKinley is among the leading republicans of the state, and his refusal to champion the candidacy of Sherman in the role of a delegate, bodes no good to the latter. His action will likely have the effect of securing delegates from his district inimical to Sherman. His position will be a tower of strength to the opponents of the senator. The defection of Major McKinley is followed by W. H. West, 'the blind man eloquent,' a representative and leading republican, who presented the name of Blaine at the Chicago convention in 1884. Judge West announces that he is taking no part in politics this year."

TOO MUCH ENJOYMENT.

A Hilarious Time Unfitted a Man to Drive Home.

MARION, Ind., March 13.—William Lyons, residing several miles from this city died yesterday morning. Several days ago, Lyons came to Marion, fell in with some boon companions and had a very hilarious time. On the way home, his team ran away and he was dragged a considerable distance, sustaining injuries that proved fatal.

HURLED DOWN A ROCKY CHASM.

Vague Report of a Terrible Accident to a Canadian Pacific Passenger Train.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 13.—A Winnipeg special to the Pioneer Press says it is reported that a trestle has given way at North Bay, throwing a Canadian Pacific passenger train into a rocky chasm. The report is not yet confirmed.

Rabbi Frey's Return.

WABASH, Ind., March 13.—Rabbi Sigmund Frey, who has become somewhat notorious as the rabbi who can not hold a position because of constant persecution by his wife, has returned to Wabash. The rabbi states that since leaving here he was engaged by a Chicago congregation, but Mrs. Frey heard of it, and came up from Cincinnati and blackened his reputation so much that he had to leave. The woman, who has sworn to drive Frey out of every situation he secured, has now agreed to persecute no more, and will be paid a monthly allowance by the rabbi, who is arranging to go to a distant point.

DESERT THEIR POSTS

The C., M. & St. P. Engineers Desert Their Engines When Ordered to Handle "Q" Freight.

CHICAGO, March 13.—General Superintendent Collins, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, notified the Burlington officials that he was now ready to handle Chicago, Burlington and Quincy freight, but when he undertook it the engineers deserted their engines.

The new contract for the fast mail service, between Chicago and Council Bluffs, with the Burlington road has been postponed for one week in consequence of the troubles on that road.

THE WABASH CASE.

No matter what the decision of Judge Gresham may be in the Wabash matter, which was intended for a test case, there is likely to be trouble on General Manager McNulta's road.

Chief Arthur advised Chairman Hanley, of the Wabash grievance committee, to take care of all freight consigned to the Wabash road, whether it came from the Burlington as local or through freight, taking the ground that the road being in the hands of the United States court, was in a peculiar position and ought not be interfered with.

Judge Gresham will render his decision in the Wabash case to-morrow morning.

THE ST LOUIS SAENGERBUND.

Thirty-five Hundred Voices in the Chorus and Noted Soloists.

Miss Adele Aander Ohe will be the piano accompanist. The chorus will consist of 3,500 voices; representing more than 100 societies from eighteen states. They will be under the direction of Professor Egmont Froliche, of St. Louis. Apart from the solos and choruses the management have arranged to permit six societies to sing selections of their own, but no society with less than forty voices will be permitted to sing except in chorus.

FORGED CHECKS.

A Number of Them Issued on Berghoff Brothers.

This morning a bogus check calling for $42 came to Berghoff Bros. and was pronounced a forgery.

Gerson Scherzinger, of the Custer house took the paper from "Wm. Nodle, of Cincinnati" and advanced $5 on it. Nodle represented himself as a malt agent and said he sold an order to the Berghoff's. Mr. Scherzinger did not trust him and made it a point to interview Mr. Herman Berghoff and ascertain the character of the check.

Nodle, by this time had vanished and is out of town.

It is said that he passed similar checks on other people.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Indiana democrats here are mentioning the name of Representative Holman for governor, and say that if he was given a solid indorsement by the delegation from his district, he might be nominated as a compromise between the Myers, Matson and Cobb forces. ### HEWITT AND THE IRISH FLAG.

An Alderman Proposes to Test the Authority of the New York Mayor.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Alderman Divver will offer a resolution asking the commissioner of public works to direct the janitor of the city hall, Martin Keese, to hoist the Irish flag next Saturday, St. Patricks day. He said that he was aware that thereby he would fly in the face of the mayor's declaration that no national flag but the American flag should fly from the city hall while he was bossing things in this city. Mr. Divver said it was his intention to have it decided whether or not Mayor Hewitt had power enough to enforce his view, and also determined how much sand there is in the board of alderman. He believed that the resolution would be passed.

IT COMES HIGH.

Diedrich Meyer Sued by Charles Lonergon for $5,000.

Charles J. Lonergon to-day filed suit in the circuit court to recover $5,000 damages from Deidrich Meyer. Mr. P. B. Colerick penned the complaint.

Mr. Lonergon alleges that Mr. Meyer, who is a carpenter in the Pittsburg shop, charged him with stealing a watch from his pocket. Meyer is said to have been in liquor and said "that d—d thief, Lonergon, stole my watch." When Meyer got sober he found his ticker. Now Mr. Lonergon wants Meyer to settle for the free use of his language.

COL. C. C. MATSON.

The Great Soldier Congressman Talks of the Political Outlook.

Col. C. C. Matson, of Greencastle, Ind., is a guest of the Wayne hotel.

Colonel Matson represents the Fifth Indiana district in congress and has done so with distinguished honor to himself and the state for four successive terms.

In the forty-eighth, forty-ninth and the present congress he has served as chairman of the committee on invalid pensions and is regarded as the best and staunchest friend and advocate that the war veterans have ever had in the lower house, and justly so, for he is one of them, having merited the rank of colonel for bravery in the service. He enlisted as a private soldier at the beginning of the late war, in the Sixteenth Indiana regiment, and after one year's service there, became a member of the Sixth Indiana cavalry, filling different grades in that company up to that of colonel of the Seventy-first, to which the Sixth cavalry belonged; after the close of the war he took up the profession of law under the auspices of his father, who was a former member of congress and followed the profession until he was elected to the Forty-seventh congress, and has since been successively elected to the Forty-eighth, Forty-ninth and Fiftieth congresses, giving him wide public experience and national fame.

Colonel Matson is now a democratic candidate for governor of Indiana and is leading in the race. He comes here to meet his democratic friends and make new ones in the interest of his candidacy.

"I have been over the state," replied the colonel to THE SENTINEL interviewer, "and find the party stronger than it ever was. Will we win, you ask?" continued he. "If I did not feel that victory was certain, I would not be working so hard for the nomination. I never have and hope I never will make a loging fight. I find that the best of feeling prevails everywhere, for the people have the greatest confidence in the administration of President Cleveland and consequent favor for the party he represents."

Dempsey Wants to Meet Mitchell.

He was a member of the Methodist church. It is said he was getting $12 per week and was tormented with the dread of what would become of his wife and children if he lost employment or was sick. So he began to steal last Christmas. He had not disposed of any goods.

The amendment was defeated by a strict party vote; yeas 24, nays 29, and the original resolution was adopted.

Curling Club Ball.

The Fort Wayne Curling club will give a grand ball at Morton hall Monday evening, April 2. First class music has been engaged, and a splendid time may be expected. Tickets may be had from the members of the club.

If the throat trouble of the Crown Prince of Germany causes his death soon the heir to the throne will be his eldest son, Prince Wilhelm, of whom the Countess von Krockow writes: "The Germans cannot forgive an heir apparent of the throne having been born mediocre in figure and imperfectly formed. Prince Wilhelm has a crippled arm. The fingers are mere knobs. In the Hussar uniform there is a pocket, and he wears it because the three fingers of the helpless member can be hung in the pocket. Otherwise it hangs awkwardly and helplessly in its sleeve. His horses are especially trained, and before the Prince is to mount, are ridden three-quarters of an hour to wear them down. He can just manage to hold the reigns. We were together in a country house. I looked with the hostess at the fork with which he ate. It is of silver and not conspicuously different from others, but fixed to the under tine there is a sharp, small blade. What the Prince cannot cut with the one hand and with this blade he does not undertake to eat. The right hand and arm are large and of extraordinary dexterity, but the little finger is deformed by a growth which the Prince only imperfectly conceals by wearing rings up to near the third phalange."

E. A. K. HACKETT, Editor and Proprietor.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1888.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND will tempt the mountain trout of West Virginia in May in company with ex-Senator Davis.

IT is said at Washington that if ex-Congressman Cobb fails to secure the appointment of land commissioner, he wants to be nominated for governor of Indiana. Mr. Cobb's simple "wants" will not insure satisfaction to his desires.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSIONER EDGERTON is reported as saying he hopes no Indiana democrat will be nominated for vice-president, adding: "Indiana has taken the leavings long enough. They have always been so ready to take just anything, though, that it never occurs to anybody to offer them first choice."

ROBERT T. LINCOLN has written a letter saying: "While I maintain and manifest interest in public affairs, my interest will never again be official." Mr. Lincoln, like Mr. Blaine, happily perceives the situation and will not be the republican sacrifice lamb. Let us make Mr. Cleveland's election unanimous.

HON. J. W. FRENCH, editor of the Lafayette Journal, has filed his resignation as state senator from Posey county, and will canvass for the office of superintendent of public instruction. Mr. French is one of the prominent democrats of the state and a gentleman who will honor any position of trust within the gift of the people.

THE New York Herald has this withering reference to the Gazette's presidential favorite: "Judge Gresham may have a small sized presidential bee in his bonnet or he may not. Time alone will discover that secret. At any rate, he will feel gratified at the estimation in which he is held by the Indiana farmers. One of them said to our correspondent that he is 'quick and strong as lightnin', and clear and square as a winder pane.'"

CONGRESSMAN RANDALL introduced his tariff and reform bill to the house of representatives yesterday. The estimated reductions under this bill will be: On internal revenue taxation, $70,000,000; estimated reduction on tariff schedules, $25,000,000. The bill is fully twice as long as the Mills bill and relates to many more subjects, ignoring, of course, the interests of the Pennsylvania millionaires to whose good graces Mr. Randall owes his seat in congress. Since all sides, however, are agreed that tariff and revenue reforms are necessary, they can certainly combine on an honest democratic measure.

Colonel Matson for Governor.

[Logansport Pharos.]

The candidacy of Col. Courtland C. Matson, of Greencastle, for governor, is now authoritatively announced and he enters the list of avowed candidates with as much, if not more prestige, than anyone whose name has been mentioned in connection with the democratic nomination for governor. Both his civil and military records are conspicuously brilliant and worthy of commendation. His four consecutive terms of service in congress has made him familiar with public affairs and qualifies him to fill the distinguished position of governor of Indiana creditably. His democracy is unquestioned, and judging from his congressional campaigns it is of that aggressive kind that fights an offensive battle and forces the enemy to the defensive on all questions.

AT an auction sale in Boston of the collection of autographs and manuscripts of the late Ben: Perley Poore, following are some of the prices realized: Robert Fulton, $17; Sir Edmund Andros, $6; Thomas Lord Culpeper, $8.25; John Endicott, $13; Governor Thomas Hensley, of Plymouth, $9.35; John Campbell, Governor of Virginia, $6; William Penn, $26; William H. Seward, 25 cents; George Grote, historian, $19.50; Hannibal Hamlin, 5 cents. Five autograph letters of Hawthorne brought respectively, $18, $12, $13, $5 and $12. A letter of Henry III. of France brought $3.25; Victor Hugo, $4. An original printed copy of the Declaration of Independence, issued to be read in the churches July 17, 1776, brought $31. A newspaper of the day containing the Declaration brought $19. A document signed by B. Franklin, Silas Deane and Arthur Lee, Commissioners, sold for $24, and a document signed by Stephen Hopkins, signer of the Declaration of Independence, $19. A letter of Jefferson's relative to laying out the city of Washington brought $7. Three letters from "Stonewall" Jackson sold for $25 each; two from General Robert E Lee, $24 and $25; one from Captain Henry Wirz, the Andersonville Prison keeper, $34; William Penn, $26; Thomas Jefferson, $7; Disraeli, $11; Charles Dickens, $10.50; John Hancock, $2.50; Governor Gage, $2.75; Roger Sherman, $2.50.

PORTLAND, Me., has a gambler whose recent exhibition of nerve has given him great honor among the fancy. He was behind the faro table the other night when several men from a neighboring town came in and sat down to the game. Play ran high until $750 was on the table waiting the turn of the card. The gambler had before this made up his mind that the outsiders had put up some sort of a job on him and were going to beat him; so he whipped out a revolver and coolly announced that he was going to take everything in sight, and if anybody objected let him say so. No one objected. The revolver was a card no one could beat, and the Portland sport, quietly sweeping everything off the table into the drawer, locked it and said the game was closed.

The Element of Destiny.

One might roughly indicate the differences between ordinary men and men of eminent mark by referring to their relative possession of a consciousness of destiny. So often has a sense of being set apart and devoted to something accompanied great capacity that it would seem to be a natural and legitimate help to the carrying out of any arduous undertaking. Schopenhauer declares that no one can be blind to his own merit, any more than the man who is six feet high can remain ignorant of the fact that he towers above his fellows. He notes the pride with which Horace, Lucretius, Ovid, Dante, Shakespeare, and Bacon have spoken of themselves, and quotes the Englishman who wittily observed that merit and modesty have nothing in common except the initial letter. "I have always a suspicion about modest celebrities," he adds, "that they may be right. Goethe has frankly said, 'Only good-for-nothings are modest.'"

Certainly, the great German himself came well within the limits of his own estimate of worth, for no one would ever think of accusing him of being without personal poise and absolute confidence in the powers which influence human success. "I begin with this," he told his mother as a small boy; "later on in life I shall distinguish myself in far other ways." The fact is that as long as he lived Goethe believed in oracles, and was as willing as Rousseau to trust his fortunes to the merest process of chance. Rousseau was to be saved in the other world if the stone he threw hit the tree at which it was aimed, and had Goethe caught the plunge of the valuable pocket knife which he tossed into the river Lahn from behind the bushes where he stood, he might have become a painter instead of a poet. There may be a "divinity" that shapes the ends of all men, but only the exceptional individual seems at all conscious of the fact, or in the way of turning it to practical account, by actually relying upon it in daily life.

Thus it comes about that demonic men, men of a definite bent and direction which they cannot resist, are given to trusting more than those whose standpoint is merely personal and commonplace. Greene, the historian, tells us that "Elizabeth had, as all strong natures have, an unbounded confidence in her luck." "Her Majesty counts much on Fortune," Walsingham wrote bitterly; "I wish she would trust more in Almighty God." Lincoln never for an instant doubted that he was formed for some "great or miserable end," and freely talked about the impression to this effect which had been with him all his life, and which after the year 1840 assumed the character of positive conviction. His biographer asserts that this presentiment was as clear and certain as any image conveyed by the senses. "The star under which he was born was at once brilliant and malignant. The horoscope was cast, fixed, irreversible; and he had no more power to divert it in the minutest particular than he had to reverse the law of gravitation."—Atlantic.

"Nasal Voices, Catarrh and False Teeth."

A prominent English woman says the American women all have high, shrill, nasal voices and false teeth.

Americans don't like the constant twitting they get about this nasal twang and yet it is a fact caused by our dry stimulating atmosphere; and the universal presence of catarrhal difficulties.

But why should so many of our women have false teeth?

That is more of a poser to the English. It is quite impossible to account for it except on the theory of deranged stomach action caused by imprudence in eating and by want of regular exercise.

Both conditions are unnatural.

Catarrhal troubles everywhere prevail and end in cough and consumption, which are promoted by mal-nutrition induced by deranged stomach action. The condition is a modern one, one unknown to our ancestors who prevented the catarrh, cold, cough and consumption by abundant and regular use of what is now known as Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption Remedy and Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, two old fashioned standard remedies handed down from our ancestors and now exclusively put forth under the strongest guarantees of purity and efficacy by the world famed makers of Warner's safe cure. These two remedies plentifully used as the spring and summer seasons advance give a positive assurance of freedom, both from catarrh and those dreadful and if neglected, inevitable consequences, pneumonia, lung troubles and consumption, which so generally and fatally prevail among our people.

Comrade Eli Fisher, of Salem, Henry county, Iowa, served four years in the late war and contracted a disease called consumption by the doctors. He had frequent hemorrhages. After using Warner's Log Cabin Cough and Consumption remedy, he says, under date of Jan, 19, 1888: "I do no bleed at the lungs any more, my cough does not bother me, and I do not have any more smothering spells." Warner's Log Cabin Rose Cream cured his wife of catarrh and she is "sound and well."

Of course we do not like to have our women called nose talkers and false teeth owners, but these conditions can be readily overcome in the manner indicated.

HE WAS CONVERTED.

What Changed a Republican Protectionist Into a Democratic Tariff Reformer.

The following communication appeared in the Indianapolis Sentinel yesterday:

SIR—Fort Wayne, as most people are aware, is considerable of manufacturing center. Many years ago there was established here a hub and spoke factory, which grew into immense proportions, employing hundreds of men. Our people were proud of the establishment, favorably inclined to the men who managed it. The young man who was the life of the institution, furnished it brains and energy and made it a success, began to look for other worlds to conquer. He concluded that there was money to be made in the manufacture of wagons, and that other people in Indiana had a right to that business as well as the Studebakers, of South Bend. Like them he had always been a republican, brought up, trained and educated in their school of politics. Without having given the matter much thought, engrossed as he was in other affairs, he had accepted as true the theory that in some mysterious way he was benefitted by a protective tariff, and consequently was an ardent republican. With the enterprise and sagacity born of business trading and experience, he established wagon works at this city with a capacity for making a wagon every working ten minutes, or sixty wagons per day of ten hours. His enterprise thrived and grew apace. He sent his men into the southwest, established a great trade especially in Texas, to which "Lone Star" state he sent many thousands of wagons. Rumor brought to his ears the fact that wagons sold for high prices in Mexico. The dividing line was the Rio Grande river so small in the dry season that an expert trout fisher can cast a fly twice its width. Our manufacturer sent an accredited agent across the river to arrange to sell his wagons. He found the demand good, the price magnificent, and was about to start a thriving trade. But one of the minions of the red-eyed law called his attention to the tariff law of that free republic of the southwest, Mexico, which contained the following provisions relative to tariff on imports—"Wagons, all classes and dimensions, each $80.00." The agent returned with feathers down and reported to his principal. The manufacturers' "bile rose in gorge." For the first time he appreciated the blessings of a protective tariff. He ceased to advise his workmen to vote for the G. O. R. P. The scales fell from his eyes and he is now a stalwart democrat reverse reformer.

Fort Wayne, March 8.

The body is more susceptible to benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla now than at any other season. Therefore take it now.

PREPARATIONS for the Paris Exposition of 1889 are advancing rapidly. The central portion of the Champ de Mars, which is to be planted with elms and surrounded by terraces, has already received the trees. The new tower has reached the height of 185 feet, but whether it will be carried 1,000 feet high appears doubtful to many. The exposition will celebrate the destruction of the Bastile, and its sole aim is the introduction and encouragement of industries.

THE Russians are pushing forward the Trans-Caspian Railroad as rapidly as some of our own roads have advanced. The people of Bokhara never saw so novel a sight before as the spectacle of the 7,000 men who are now grading the road through the country where a few years ago no undisguised white man was safe for a moment. The road is now ready for the rails for four-fifths of the way between the Oxus and Samarcand, nearly three hundred miles, but the track cannot be laid until the bridge over the Oxus is completed. This bridge, now more than half finished, will be three miles long, and will be one of the largest structures of the sort in the world. It will connect the road now completed to the Oxus with the extension to Samarcand, and next spring the ancient capital of Tamerlane will be connected by steam with the western world.

To imagine that the treatment of Constipation consists merely in unloading the bowels. The medicine must not only act as a purgative, but be a tonic as well, and not produce after its use greater costiveness. This is what Simmons Liver Regulator always does.

"As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels."—W. J. McELROY, Macon, Ga.

Believe us, when we tell you that most of the despondent feeling (the blues) is the effect of a Torpid Liver, Indigestion, Weakness of Stomach, and Nervousness. A dose of Simmons Liver Regulator invariably relieves, cures and prevents a re-occurrence.

"I find Simmons Liver Regulator, very safe, harmless and valuable as a family medicine, and have used it for any disorder of the system and have found it to act like a charm, and I believe that if it was used in time, it would prove a great preventive of sickness. I have often recommended it to my friends, and shall continue to do so."—Rev. A. M. BOLLING, Fairfield, Va.

Simmons Liver Regulator is given with safety and with the happiest results, in almost any ailment, to the most delicate infant as well as to the adult. The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, worn-out, "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppression, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. It is equally efficacious and valuable in its effects when taken for those disorders and derangements incident to that later and most critical period, known as "The Change of Life."

"Favorite Prescription," when taken in connection with the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and small laxative doses of Dr. Pierce's Purgative Pellets (Little Liver Pills), cures Liver, Kidney and Bladder disease. These combined use also removes blood taints, and abolishes cancerous and scrofulous humors from the system.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Large bottles (100 doses) $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Drinks of Many Nations.

In Mohammedan countries very little alcohol is consumed in proportion to the number of people. The koran denies the seductive pleasures of its material paradise to musculmans who indulge in the flowing bowl of Bacchus here below. The whole Persian nation belong to the Shiah faith. Its 10,000,000 of people are governed with the same ease as the same number of sheep might be by a few officials who care nothing for their welfare except to squeeze them like an orange whenever they feel like it. The 10,000,000 never touch anything intoxicating from one year's end to another. The governing few consume raw, fiery arrack by the pint daily, in wanton disregard of the koran and its teachings.

Taken all in all, perhaps the English residents in India spend more money for drink than any other people in the world. Plenty of people are, of course, ready to condemn this sort of thing, and say the Anglo-Indians ought to quench thier thirst with non-intoxicants. More lemonade and less brandy and champagne, it is claimed, would materially lessen the rate of mortality from enlarged spleen, the bane of Anglo-Indian life. This may be strictly true, but the fact remains that a mere handful of hard-drinking Britons are administering the affairs of 200,000,000 practically non-drinking people.

Some of the natives of India consume more or less arrack and palm toddy, but the Brahmins, the gentlest and easiest governed people in the world, drink nothing stronger than water. The only tribe of people in India who drink to excess are the Zats of the Punjaub. The festive Zat gets drunk on arrack, and indulges in manly sports like a civilized being. On the field of battle he is equal to a round dozen non-drinking Hindoos, and forms to-day the flower of the native British-Indian army. He it was that stood firmly by the English during the mutiny, and performed prodigies of valor scarcely second to Tommy Atkins himself.

No nation in Asia drinks so persistently and steadily as do the Japanese. The average Jap consumes about half a pint of sake or rice beer with each meal—a pint and a half per day—saying nothing about further social indulgence in the evening. Both men and women drink sake by the pint daily, and think no harm of it, either. At meal-times the sake is served up in slender, big-necked, earthenware bottles holding about a pint. The favorite way is to drink it warm. It is usually warmed by setting the bottle in boiling water for awhile before putting it on the table. Rice beer is a rather deceptive name to give sake, as it resembles liquor more than beer, both in color and consistency and intoxicating property.

The Russians are a nation of hard drinkers. Vodka is consumed by the Muscovite peasantry in vast quantities. The moujik's idea of a holiday is to get skin-full of vodka and then lie down and hang on to the ground. This laudable performance is gone through with by the Russian peasant as often as he can procure the necessary quantity of vodka.

The Chinese as a nation consume very little intoxicating drink, although they make a beverage from rice called "torri," almost the counterpart of the sake of Japan.

The Turks are a nation that drink next to nothing of a stimulating character, unless tiny cups of strong black coffee may be so considered.

Lost.—"I don't know where, I can't tell when, I don't see how—something of great value to me, and for the return of which I shall be truly thankful, viz.: a good appetite."

Found.—"Health and strength, pure blood, an appetite like that of a wolf, regular digestion, all by taking that popular and peculiar medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla. I want everybody to try it this season." It is sold by all druggists. One hundred doses one dollar.

POPULAR SCIENCE.

DR. JOHN ASHURST, JR., says that in opening a felon the parts to be avoided are lines of the arteries and that of the flexor tendon, which is the median line. The felon should be opened midway between the artery and tendon. If necessary, it can be opened on both sides. If the sheath of the tendon be opened the tendon will almost always slough, and the finger will be useless.

PROF. HORSLEY alluded to the series of experiments on the influence of alcohol upon plant life carried out by Dr. Ridge, of Enfield, who found that one-sixteenth per cent. of a solution of alcohol checked the growth of watercress, and that a tenth solution of alcohol killed its seeds. The position of the medical profession with regard to alcohol as a food was becoming more and more defined.

SOME curious results produced by exploding marked blocks of gun cotton on flat plates of wrought iron have been described by Mr. C. E. Monroe. The gun cotton blocks were placed with the lettered side down, and the letters stamped in relief appeared in relief on the iron after explosion, while, on the other hand, the letters depressed in the gun cotton were also depressed on the iron plate.

THE last eclipse of the sun seems to have produced more effect upon animals than upon man. La Nature says that, at Berlin, birds that were in full song at sunrise suddenly became silent, and, when the darkness was deepest, showed their inquietude by cries of fear. It was remarked by observers that perroquets were the most alarmed, while canary birds appeared to be the most indifferent to the astronomical phenomenon.

ANTS not only recognize one another after separation for more than a year, but there are evidences of strong affection between them. After keeping one nest of ants for seven years, Sir John Lubbock had still two survivors, and this pair finally died within a week of each other after living together two years longer. The shock produced by the loss of her companion was the only apparent cause of the death of the last member of this remarkable colony.

AN English educational writer states that the existence of what he terms "sound blindness" was suggested to him by the difficulties some persons experience in learning to spell and to pronounce foreign languages. The phenomenon is evidently inability to distinguish particular shades of sound, and is analogous to color-blindness. Among illustrations given is that of a boy who, though not deaf, could hear no difference between "very," "perry," and "polly."

THE rapid increase in the use of electricity as a motive power gives special interest to the discovery that palladium, a metal of the platinum group, but of far lower density than the latter, may be substituted for steel in the manufacture of watches. Palladium is absolutely nonpolarizable, and it is unaffected to any noticeable extent by the presence of a magnetic field. Besides this it has the incidental advantage of being rust-proof. The discovery is due to Mr. C. A. Paillard of Geneva, Switzerland, and watches are now being constructed with this metal.

MRS. E. P. BAILEY, wife of the editor of the Utica Observer, has invented a contrivance for the convenience and comfort of the sick which is very highly spoken of in the hospitals where it has been tried. Two iron sockets are attached firmly to the sides of the bedstead by screws, and into these are fitted short poles, and between the poles is suspended a horizontal bar, also fitted into clamps and adjustable to any highth above the patient lying on the bed. From this bar hang a pair of strong straps with grips, and these can be moved from right to left at will. By grasping these straps the sick man can utilize the strength of his arms to lift himself up, to change his position, to turn over, and to allow the bedding to be changed. There are a variety of attachments to the invention which extend its usefulness indefinitely. One is a rest for the leg, in which a broken limb can be placed while it is being dressed. It is only necessary to unscrew the sockets attached to the bedstead and change their location to utilize this. Another is a small table for medicines, a book, anything a patient wants, within immediate reach. Another is a curtain rod, likely to be especially serviceable in hospital wards to avoid a draught, to shut out the light, or to afford a degree of privacy.

I think Ely's Cream Balm is the best remedy for catarrh I ever saw. I never took anything that relieved me so quickly, and I have not felt so well for a long time. I used to be troubled with severe headaches two or three times a week, but since using the Balm have only had one and that was very light compared with other former ones. J. A. Alcorn, Agent U. P. R. R., Eaton, Colorado.

I find Ely's Cream Balm good for catarrh of long standing.—M. N. Lasley, 1,934 West Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky.

The Owner of It All.

At Northwest Upper Village, Lower Falls—which the reader will at once know is a thriving village in Massachusetts—a young man came to the hotel to take me over to see "our hall." He wore a visorless cap that was intended to be an impression of an imitation of astrakhan, and his overcoat was trimmed with fur which had withstood the ravages of time and moth about as well as fur trimming can be expected to withstand the ravages of those relentless foes during a constant and pitiless struggle of seventeen long and weary years. He was a pleasant and evidently a professional young man, who explained the "accosticks" of "our hall" to me; showed me what improvements "we" had made and contemplated making; said that three parties of "his people" were on this circuit now; he was playing them on two and three night stands; wouldn't do any other kind of business; would rather keep his people on the road on expense than hold them over at a one-night town. That was the reason he didn't like to handle lecturers. He had hesitated some time before taking me, and only did so to please some of the old patrons of the opera-house. He didn't care to handle lecturers.

I said they were a mean lot of citizens.

He placidly assented, and told me I had better leave the setting of the stage to him, as lecturers knew nothing about such things. He always managed Beecher and Gough when they came on this circuit, but—

Just then a short, fat man with a scowl that looked as though it had been stolen from the property man came on the stage.

"Bill," he roared, "there's three inches of dust in them boxes. Git into 'em right away, and then go down and shift the coal over, as I told you."

And as Bill fled into "them boxes" and went to work I saw that the removal of his overcoat displayed a red-flannel shirt and a paper collar. The janitor told me Bill was a handy sort of a fellow about the house, but so all-killin' lazy you had to keep after him with a club all the time.—Burdette.

has yet been discovered; but, as at least four-fifths of human diseases have their source in Impure Blood, a medicine which restores that fluid from a depraved to a healthy condition comes as near being a universal cure as any that can be produced. Ayer's Sarsaparilla affects the blood in each stage of its formation, and is, therefore, adapted to a greater variety of complaints than any other known medicine.

Boils and Carbuncles,

which defy ordinary treatment, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla after a comparatively brief trial.

Mr. C. K. Murray, of Charlottesville, Va., writes that for years he was afflicted with boils which caused him much suffering. These were succeeded by carbuncles, of which he had several at one time. He then began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and after taking three bottles, the carbuncles disappeared, and for six years he has not had even a pimple.

That insidious disease, Scrofula, is the fruitful cause of innumerable complaints, Consumption being only one of many equally fatal. Eruptions, ulcers, sore eyes, glandular swellings, weak and wasted muscles, a capricious appetite, and the like, are pretty sure indications of a scrofulous taint in the system. Many otherwise beautiful faces are disfigured by pimples, eruptions, and unsightly blotches, which arise from impure blood, showing the need of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to remedy the evil.

All sufferers from blood disorders should give Ayer's Sarsaparilla a fair trial,—avoiding all powders, ointments, and washes, and especially cheap and worthless compounds, which not only fail to effect a cure, but more frequently aggravate and confirm the diseases they are fraudulently advertised to remedy.

The Irish citizens of Fort Wayne will not participate in any public observance of St. Patrick's day. They are considerably chagrined at the advice proffered as to their behavior on the anniversary of Ireland's patron saint. They say that this kindly admonition is offered them at each recurrence of St. Patrick's day, and feel that they are as well able to maintain their respectability as the people of any other birth and what is more, they propose to have it understood.

ECHOES OF THE RAIL.

Chief Arthur Talks About Locomotive Engineers--The News and Gossip of the Day.

Railroad travel is light on all roads.

The Olds works will pay off their employes Thursday.

The Wabash took a number of passengers west last evening.

The moulding rooms of the Bass works are in active operation.

James Hartigan, the Nickel Plate engineer, is on the sick list.

W. A. McKinney, of the C., M. and St. P. road, was in the city.

Sylvester Towns, of the electric light works, is confined to his home with a fever.

The Wabash engineers will probably not be compelled to join in the Burlington strike.

Joe Dwenger, of the Bass machine shops, is still on the sick list, but improving slowly.

Daniel Peigen, of the Pittsburg copper shops, will soon be married to a young lady living on Holman street.

J. F. McFarland, traveling freight and passenger agent of the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas was in the city to-day.

The Grand Rapids pay car was in the city to-day and distributed its gold and silver among the employes of that road.

Our railroad reporter is indebted to George Oppels for favors and is glad to mention the fact that the handsome young man is shortly to wed a young lady from Michigan.

Locomotive and car building is going very slow and will continue to do so until the mischevious and business-upsetting strike is ended.

An advance of $1 on second-class tickets between New York and western points is under consideration, with good prospects that it will be made.

The gross earnings of 109 roads for the month of February were $22,116,090, being an increase of $1,907,837 over the earnings of February, 1887.

Robert Harrison, the foreman of the Pittsburg car shops, and his brother, William, left for Toronto, Canada, last night to attend the funeral of a brother.

Thomas Sheppard, of the Pittsburg boiler shops, who has been confined to his home for the last few months with a severe case of sickness, is but very little improved.

The Baltimore and Ohio is now expending $1,400,000 for fifty locomotives, 1,500 freight cars and 250 refrigerator cars, and will soon put into the property $3,000,000 more.

Passenger men predict a very heavy summer's travel, and that it will be carried at very low rates, there are to be no many excursions, conventions and expositions covering long dates.

During the present year the Lake Shore company proposes to take up all the wooden trestles on the Air Line division and replace them with solid stone. This will clear the division of all wooden structures.

The suspension of the men at the Pittsburg and Bass works and the closing down of the Kerr Murray foundry leaves many out of employment for the time being and there is no a business in the city but will suffer in consequence of it.

Charley Bency, the machinist in the Bass works who was injured by a fall a few days ago, is still confined to his home from the effects of it. He appears to have been injurned internally and it will be several days before he will return to work again.

A labor organization ought to think 999 times before it sets once in bringing about a strike of any kind. Even though the strikers gain their point the individual members are always left in a worse condition financially. Strikes are terrible, even as a last resort.

August Fromuth, a machinist in the Bass foundry, has gone to Columbia City to superintendent the erection of an engine and boiler by his company for the electric light works of that place. Gus is a handsome fellow and the young ladies of that place will be loth to let him return to Fort Wayne again.

The death roll of railway employes killed in Iowa by the common link and pin coupler and hand freight brake in the single month of December furnishes an appalling total, fifty-four killed and twelve crippled for life. If small casualties, such as the loss of fingers, &c., had been noted, the list would have been doubled.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, with its net work of branches, is one of the most extensive railroads in the country. It extends from Chicago west to Denver and Cheyenne, Col., north to Minneapolis and St. Paul, south to St. Louis and covers an immense tract of country with its 5,000 miles of steel rail. No wonder the "Q" strike is a big affair and has its effect upon the business interests of the country.

Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, says: "A clause in our rules demands the dismissal of any engineer found intoxicated, whether on or off duty, and that he be reported to the officers of the road as an unsafe man to employ. Another clause provides when a man applys for membership he must be examined by a committee of three from the lodge he applies to, and unless he is an engineer of one or more years practical experience, not addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors, and a man of otherwise good character, he will not be accepted. During the last fourteen years not a single brotherhood man has ever deserted his engine without using every possible precaution to save the lives of his passengers, and the public well know how many have died at their post of duty. I attribute this remarkable record to the fact that these men are and must be sober, skilled, moral, intelligent men of nerve and principle. In all this, the great public has been benefitted during the past twenty-five years—during the life of the organization.

ONE OF THE THIEVES.

Gas Below Salt Water.

Ex-United States Senator Camden, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, has written the following letter to a leading Fort Wayne citizen:

DEAR SIR:—Yours of the 6th inst. received asking whether gas or oil is ever found below salt water Our experience in West Virginia is that oil and gas is generally found either with salt water, or below it—and I think this is the case in Pennsylvania, and in most oil districts. The salt furnaces in the big Kenawha river, were run by the gas that came up with the salt water, many years ago, before oil and gas were known in valuable productions.

We get salt water at various depths in this section of from 300 to 1,000 feet, and oil from 800 to 1,800 feet. I do not give any opinion as an expert, but simply state what I have observed in many instances. Yours,

J. N. CAMDON.

Francis Murphy, the great temperance advocate, wants a law passed making it a crime for a man to treat or be treated. Upon this subject Mr. Murphy said, in Buffalo, last week: "It is an awful thing for a man to say no when he has not been weaned. Look at the effect on a baby that has been on the bottle for two years when you undertake to wean it. What think you, must it be with a man who has been on a bottle for twenty years?"

Some of the Good Reasons Why the Horse Show

At the Academy of Music, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 15, 16 and 17, should be well patronized is that Mr. W. C. Coup has always given the public pure and healthful amusement. Never permitting anything in his exhibitions that a mother could not safely send her daughters to see.

His fortunes have been expended in purifying and elevating amusements.
